

Ericka Roe

Ericka is cast in the recurring role of 'ALANNAH SHOREY' in the BBC Television drama "THE DUBLIN MURDERS" which is currently in production in Belfast and Dublin until February 2019. Her screen credits also include 'Tina' in RTE Television's drama "TAKEN DOWN" directed by David Caffrey, 'Shauna' in "JELLY BABY" directed by Naomi Fagan, and 'Erika' in "A DIFFERENT KIND OF DAY" directed by Maria Doyle Kennedy.

Theatre wise Ericka most recently reprised her role of 'Charleigh' in The Breadline Collective's play "SAY NOTHIN' TO NO ONE", written, directed and also performed by Thomas Kane Byrne, which ran in Dublin's Project Arts Centre until December 1st. She performed in NASSIM in the Project Arts Centre Cube as part of this year's Dublin Theatre Festival. Early September saw her perform as 'Joni' in Ali Hardiman's play 'ELECTRIC' which ran at this year's Electric Picnic. Her other theatre credits include the role of 'Mary' in "MY SON, MY SON" (Project Arts Centre, Axis Ballymun, and The Mermaid Bray), 'Ilse' in SPRING AWAKENING (Ill Advised Theatre Company), 'Paula' in THE BOY WITH THE HALOGEN HAIR written by Eddie Naughton and directed by Kieran McDonald, and 'Alma' in Derek Masterson's QUEENS OF PIMLICO (No Tears Productions). Ericka is a founding member of The Breadline Collective.

Ericka is a graduate Bull Alley Theatre Training Company and is also a graduate of the full-time programme at Bow Street Academy for Screen Acting.
