

Abigail Ramaabya

Originally from Botswana in South Africa, Abigail is based in Sligo in the North West of Ireland.

She plays an 'ALOCOYTE' in "FOUNDATION" an Apple original drama starring Jared Harris and Lee Pace that's based on Isaac Asimov's science fiction novel trilogy. The 10-episode series from David S. Goyer, Josh Friedman and Skydance Television chronicles the epic saga of The Foundation, a band of exiles who discover that the only way to save the Galactic Empire from destruction is to defy it. Production is scheduled to restart in Troy Studios in Limerick in October. You can watch the trailer for FOUNDATION You Tube.

Theatre wise Abigail performs in "THE BED" a bold exploration of homelessness, life, safety, exile, incarnation, and the reality of life in Direct Provision. It is self written and produced by a group of young creators in collaboration with Sligo's Hawks Well Theatre.

She performed in Broken Talkers staging of "UPROOTED" which ran in The Hawk's Well Theatre in Sligo as part of the 2019 Cairde Festival.

While in Botswana she competed in local, national and international Pageants.

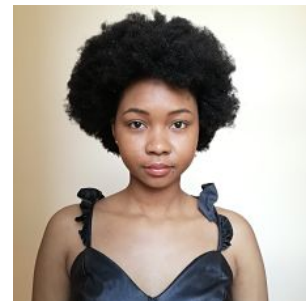

Height: 5' 8" (173cm)

Principal Age Range: 18 - 25

Build: Slim

Hair: Black

Eyes: Brown

Skills

Accents: Neutral*, Botswana, Regional African, American Standard

Languages: English (Fluent), Setswana (Fluent)

Performance: Improvisation, Movement

Sports: Tennis, Volleyball

Screen

TV/Film

Foundation (Apple TV)

Role

Alocoyte

Director

Rupert Sanders

Company

Skydance Television

Theatre

Play

The Bed

Role

Multiple

Director

TBC

Company

The Hawk's Well / Broken Talkers

Uprooted

Abi

Lizzie Claffey

The Hawk